MAY G. NASH, Nurse

Four years ago we were graduated from grammar school. We felt big and quite proud of ourselves. Then we went to high school and were engulfed in the bewilderment and awe which is typical of freshmen.

A year later, when we were just beginning to settle down and become accustomed to our surroundings we became sophomores and entered the portals of Central High School. Again we were classed as freshmen and we wondered if we would ever learn to find our way about the school and if it were possible to adjust ourselves to the complicated (so it seemed to us) life at Central.

A year later we became juniors and immediately began looking forward to the next year when we would become seniors. We found that life at Central was not complicated at all, but we felt quite at ease and could look upon the naivete of the freshmen with tolerance.

Then we became seniors. How relieved we were when we had received our 4A O. K.'s and had delivered our 4A speeches from the auditorium stage.

And once more we are to become freshmen—freshmen in the school of life. At first we'll be bewildered and wonder whether we'll ever learn—but with the years, there will grow upon us that same sense of assurance which came to us gradually during our four years at high school. Our training at Central High will instill in us confidence to accomplish great things.

We will never forget the kindly efforts of the faculty in our behalf; nor will we forget the friendly advice and guidance of our principal, Mr. Wiener.

We'll never forget her—our Alma Mater!

EVELYN ANDERS.

Commencement

The time is fast approaching that marks the turning point in our lives. Commencement; how full and expressive the word is! And yet there was a time when it was only a vague, distant term that applied to us only in the future. But now that anticipated future is here! Commencement is no longer vague, it is very distinct! It conveys many meanings, but, above all, it makes us realize that our childhood is over. We now discard its gay robes and in its place clothe ourselves in more sombre garments,—the garments of manhood and womanhood.

For us, there are now two worlds, and we are standing on the threshold of a new one. We must leave the old one. Only in thought can we return to it. Too long have we been confined within its narrow walls. But how protective and secure those walls were! How comfortable we were in its narrow confines! We long to remain; but an unseen hand grasps us and sets us on this strange place. Steep stairs confront us. They are the stairs to success. We stand trembling at the foot of these stairs. We are bewildered, afraid, lonely, in this new world. Our feet are not placed firmly on the ground; we waver a little. Finally, we tremblingly ascend the steep stairs. We are hesitant, the way is doubtful. We observe others around us, but they are strangers, not our friends at school. They are absorbed in their individual tasks. Their goal is the top, to happiness and success. We are jostled and pushed. But we continue our climb. Each step we gain adds more to our enthusiasm. Occasionally we fall back, but we adjust ourselves, and soon continue. People around us are falling. Some remain where they fall, while others soon retrieve their steps. And so we too fall, climb, and fall again. But the desire still remains to reach the goal to success.

FANNY TABOLSKY.

From Principal to Parent

December 17, 1934.

Dear Parents:

Ours is the biggest and most responsible joy in the world. It is the greatest task we shall ever be called upon to perform, and yet we are not paid in anything the world calls pay. A spiritual joy and reward come with the joyful work of unselfishly doing for others. Think of your task of raising a family as a Divine duty and a blessed privilege. The immediate reward for your thoughtful and judicious study of the problems of life involved in bringing up a family, will be children who have learned to live for and with others. This will result in the nations of the earth knowing and understanding each other, and thus making future wars impossible.

Very truly yours,

William Weiner
Principal.

CLASS OF JANUARY, 1935

We, the January Class of 1935, of unquestionable sanity, and wishing to publish the fact, do hereby draw forth our class will and sign it in bold script.

We do hereby bequeath to the freshies, if they can appreciate it, the school with its unmarked desks and books.

To Mr. William Wiener, we leave our school-mates, who need his help and understanding as badly as we did.

To the students as a whole, we do bequeath the able help of the finest set of teachers ever known to mankind.

To the freshies we submit, for their approval, Rogues Gallery (first floor corridors) and the earnest desire to be among them some day.

To those students inspiring of higher honor, we do advise the use of the Super Honor Roll. We bet a dime we got on the roll more times than you do.

To the sophomores the joy and exuberance of being no longer freshies.

To the juniors the sorrow (?) of being seniors next year. Tsk! Tsk! How sorry we were to become seniors.

To the Class of June, 1935, we bequeath one Indian Head penny, to help them in their financial difficulties.

To the seniors we leave Mr. Miller, if he can't make a Pivot for you no one else can.

To the students who a little nervously prepare for a speech in the auditorium we leave Dr. Goldstein. He'll cure you or no one else will.

To the student body we do bequeath those heartless patrolmen and patrolwomen. How we loved it when, after walking nearly the whole length of the corridor, we met a patrolman who barred our passage saying, "Follow the arrows, please."

To those who decide that they won't be missed in class today, we leave the seat around the flag-pole, but we advise them that the movies are better; they won't get caught, maybe.

For the incoming seniors a gadget to hold their hearts in the right place while waiting for a 4A O. K. in Miss Martin's office.

We also leave those delightful locks which open so easily, especially when we open them a few seconds before the last bell.

We also do bequeath those 4A's who after graduating suddenly decide to come back for a P. G., because they cannot find a position. (You can expect nearly all of us back.)

So in the presence of witnesses we do declare this to be our last will (if you can call this a will) and testament. Hoping you won't get gray hairs figuring what we mean, we set our seal on this Twenty-fifth day of January in the year Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-five.

(Signed) CLASS OF JANUARY, 1935.

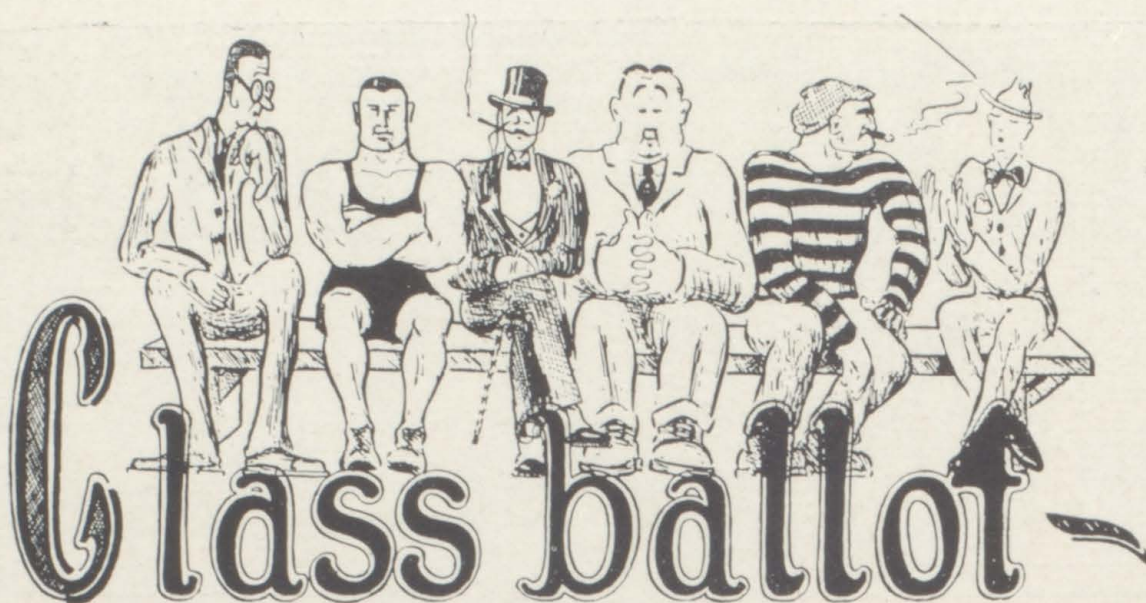

Signed, sealed, and delivered in presence of:

ROBERT MOORE,
Attorney-at-Law.

Witnesses:

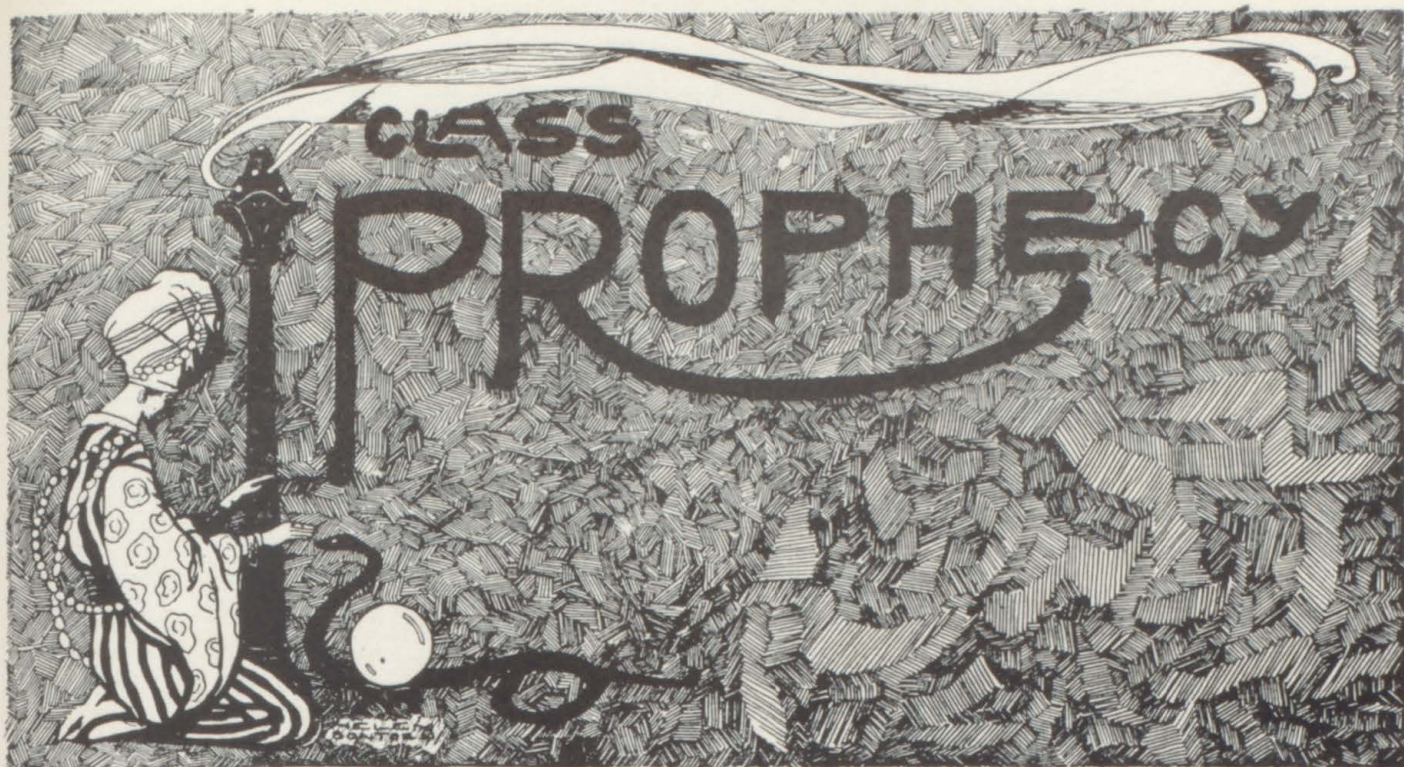

EVELYN ANDERS,
BERNICE LEISENTRITT.

It was a cold, wintry night. The wind was whistling through the trees. I turned on the radio and settled myself comfortably in my easy chair before the blazing fireplace. My favorite news commentator, Leo Rabinowitz, came on the air through the courtesy of the Jablonski Drum Manufacturing Corporation.

"Good evening, everybody! It's ten years ago tonight that I was graduated from my dear old Alma Mater, Central High School; therefore I am dedicating this program to my fellow graduates. Now for the first news item of the evening—Representative Joel Greene has just returned from a conference in Washington which ironed out the strike difficulties of the Acabone and Goldberg Dog Biscuit Company.

The Socialist Party is making rapid strides—Robert Ontell is the Socialist candidate for the House of Representatives and the Silverman brothers are managing his campaign.

Herman Brummer, the financier, has just returned from abroad.

Frank Castro has just been appointed football coach at Notre Dame for the coming season.

Fanny Tabolsky, that popular authoress, has just written a scenario which will star Eva Remondell. The part of the leading man will be taken by Paul Satz or Albert Neugebauer. Emil Kaunitz and Harold Baranoff are the cameramen.

Thomas Freda opened his latest musical comedy on Broadway last night, "The Two-Cornered Moon," featuring those two comedians, Sam Mandelstein and Rachel Malgieri. The Schenkel Twins in their sister-act, Pearl Siegel, the famed dancer, and Belle Horne, the blues singer, are also featured. The chorus includes Evelyn Gockeler, Ada Flohm, Dora Roberti, Ella Schmaltz, Harold Mauser, Chester Pniewski, Martin Mazich and Benjamin Cohen.

Reverend Frederick Minut held services yesterday in his new church.

Johnny Halkowich is a sensation in his flying trapeze act with the Hazmuka and Kazupy Circus.

At the fashion prevue held at the Potter Furrier Shop, Gertrude Shulman, Evelyn Krich, Janet Meyers, Mary Prysak and Lee Bobrow were mannikins. The costumes were designed by Alma Boetsch.

At this morning's Professional Convention, physicians were represented by Dr. James McGuire; lawyers by Jerome Ehrlich, Esquire; teachers by Evelyn Anders; nurses by Helen Meyer; and engineers by Albert Aiello. Music at the convention was furnished by Mae McCance and Doris Kraemer.

The finals in the National Golf Tournament will be held tomorrow in Weequahic Park. The contestants for the championship title are Florence Cole, Celia Schwartz, Irene Ferszt, Bernice Liesentritt, Lucille Larson and Anna Bippart.

Bessie Ingrassia, Lillian Waldman, Ida Schindel, Selma Kramer, Vincent Robertello, Paul Bonassi, Donald Lauber and Paul Speranza will represent the United States in the International Bridge Tournament to be held next month in London.

Paul Devone won the world heavyweight championship title last night—and now I see that my time is up, so until tomorrow evening at this same time I'll bid you adieu. If any of my fellow graduates are listening in, drop me a line."

How wonderful it was to receive some news about my fellow graduates and how well they have prospered!

Favorite Sayings of Teachers

Miss O'Connor: "How many were in auditorium this morning?"

Miss Batterson: "Now, little dears."

Miss Lavers: "You're the dumbest class I've ever had!"

Mr. Goldsmith: "Do you think biology is a joke?"

Dr. Goldstein: "Of course, I know that you know . . ."

Miss Kaufman: "I'm not trying to be sarcastic."

Dr. Mones: "Now bear this in mind."

Miss Lingua: "Don't ever come into this room chewing gum."

Miss Bailly: "Don't open the windows."

Miss Gordon: "Boy, will you take this upstairs for me?"

Miss Martin: "I'm not giving any more O.K.'s today."

Mr. Miller: "The thing you should know the best, you know the least."

Mr. O'Brien: "Hello, everybody."

Miss Coby: "Four lines of each and know it well."

Mr. Springer: "Precisely."

Mr. Conovitz: "That's another story."

Miss Butler: "That's it."

Mr. Weeks: "Go down for a late slip."

Mr. Heiges: "Right."

Dr. Schleicher: "History repeats itself."

A Senior Story

Once a BAKER named CLARK and a POTTER named NATHAN were traveling on the road to MOSKOW. On the way they saw a FISHERman who had just caught a STURGEON. This was a BICKSurprise because he had been fishing for only a MINUT.

Down the road there ROSE before them a FORREST. They soon came to their destination which was a BROWN house with GREEN GABLES. Their friend ISRAEL the shepherd came down the road with his HURD of HOLSTEIN cows. The bellowing of the cows sounded like a bass HORNE. ISRAEL invited the men into his home.

He said, "I'll HAFTELet you meet my wife FREDa, but FERSZT I'll put MOORE COLE on the fire." Then he went to the BARANOFF-ered the men a drink. They drank a toast to PRINCE WILHELM.

"This has a KICKIn it," they said. BRES-INTly they GLANTZed at the doorway and there was FREDa with some hot TODDy and AMANNs. The men were having such a good time that they decided to stay ONTELL the next day.

Adieu Alma Mater

Four years ago I entered your portals,
Young, eager, thirsty for knowledge.
You allowed me to taste from your cup of wisdom,
And bade me to drink for four years.
At first I tasted, and the wine was strange,
I sipped it. But under your gentle hand
I learned to like it, and gradually began
To drink deeply from the flowing cup.
Faster, more eager, I absorbed the beneficial
wine,
For I had learned its true value.
Suddenly, in the midst of my pleasure
I felt the hand holding the cup quiver.
When I attempted to support it,
You drew the cup away from me,
And informed me that the four years were up.
"Dear Alma Mater, they've flown so fast,
I've tasted your wine, and learned to like it
Must I be deprived of it now?"
You shake your wise and beautiful head,
And tell me that the wine can be procured in the Cup of life.
It is the Wine of Knowledge.
But now it will not be served to me,
I must secure it myself.
You escort me to your stately gates;
I reluctantly look back, and observe
A new, eager youth whom you welcome
With the Cup of Knowledge.
Tears come to my eyes, I envy them,
I envy their security; suddenly I'm alone,
I miss your guiding hand as I start forth
On the path of Life.

FANNY TABOLSKY.

Basketball

With the close of the football season, Doc. Sargent began to haul the basketball equipment out of the mothballs and preparations were under way for another court season. The return of the major portion of last year's varsity squad gives a strong indication that the Blue and White will have a successful season on the courts. The veterans who are back are Harry Koltman, Manny Elfenbein, Maso Ryans, Jack Fein and Isadore Dubofsky—all consistent first-string men.

Central will have to be on the alert for its two keenest rivals in South Side and East Side. A good game is expected from the Indian Courtsters of Weequahic High School. The schedule starts with the annual Alumni game and is followed by the game with Columbia High.

Swimming Team

It seems that the swimming team has proven that old adage—"Still waters run deep." This year the swimming team, with comparatively little cheering and handclapping, went about to earn for itself a reputation as one of the outstanding teams in the city.

The purpose of the swimming team is to make a name for the school in that particular activity, to promote sportsmanship, to teach its members to swim and gives an opportunity to earn life-saving emblems and a "C." The boys were captained this season by Marcelino Ostinato, and coached by Mr. Bauer and advised by Mr. Strahan.

Cross Country

Thanksgiving Day marked the close of another season of Cross Country at Central. Two outstanding events of the season were Captain Albert Handley's brilliant running in the State Meet where he established a new state record, and the winning of the Cross Country Meet for the third consecutive time, which gives Central permanent ownership of the County cup.

In 1922, Anderson, a cross-country man from Central, lost his shoe while running the Branch Brook course. Ten years later—in 1932—Albert Handley also lost his shoe while running the same course. It was rather nice to see how Bob Hanlon, second man on the team, and Al Handley hit the finish line hand-in-hand.
